FYI, I've been collecting and organizing all of the general questions that have crossed my desk. I thought we could use it to cross-check against HQ's Q&As to make sure all of the questions we've been asked have vetted answers. I haven't yet started collecting vetted answers but will work on extracting info from the website.

We were told to submit general questions to HQ for their Q&A. I didn't note anything specific to press calls.

Thanks, Cynthia.

I had not heard that specifically. Paula indicated a press@epa.gov email address which I have included on these distributions. Is that accessed by HQ OPA staff or those in Durango?

We need some clarity on where to send:

1. phone calls and emails from reporters
2. citizen calls

Any direction would be appreciated.

Have you gotten the directive that all requests go through headquarters? That is what Laura has heard.
